Dear Felix:

Re: No. 6, Baker v. Carr

Your dissent is unanswerable, except by ukase. As you suggested by telephone, I will prepare something on failure to exhaust other remedies.

We leave for "sunnier" climes on Sunday so I shall have to set the task aside until I return. In light of the waiting period Tennessee has already experienced I hope my delay will not too long deprive it of a constitutional form of government, i. e., control by the "city slickers."
