PRESENTS

Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix

Come along and join us in a marvelous, wonderful, magical, fabulous, beautiful, glorious tale of law... and MAGIC!

"If you're not watching this show, you need to sort out your priorities."
—Hermione Granger

"If I wasn't gay before, I am now."
—Albus Dumbledore

"People find me attractive."
—Robert Chesney

Law school is the worst. Fortunately, Harry Potter isn't going to law school—he's going to Magic School of Law Magic Law School! But hold on to your broomsticks, because all is not well. The school's enchanted walls might keep them safe for now, but as soon as Harry and the other Gryffjoejamaildeankeatondores graduate, they'll find that Voldemort and his Job-Eaters have eaten all the jobs.

Om nom nom nom om nom nom nom om nom nom nom.

"The cameos were a little long."
—Former Interim Dean Stephanie Lindquist

"[I'm racist]"
—A. W. Walker Centennial Chair in Law Lino Graglia

"Due to the content of the show, I cannot attend."
—Dean Ward Farnsworth

Sit back, grab your wand, and explode with delight as boy wonder, director, and "accident-al"¹ star Paul Still takes you on a mystical journey into a world where wizards and witches attend something vaguely resembling law school for some reason. You'll laugh;² you'll cry;³ you'll question your sanity, values, and every decision that could have kept this off your screen.⁴

¹A reference to the car "accident" that nearly killed original star Joel Simmons less than a week before the show.

²Doubtful.

³But not in the good way.

⁴E.g., whether to press play.
